presents

Healing Body, Mind, Heart and Soul: Holistic Healing from the Standpoint of a Priest and Physician

A lecture by Rev. David Michael Corvini, MD

Time: Wednesday, June 2, 2004 at 6:30PM

Place: New Haven Public Library in the Children's Activity Room (2nd Floor)

Rev. David Michael Corvini is an allopathically trained MD and a non-denominational Christian priest and mystic. In this lecture he will discuss the dual physical and spiritual nature of the human being, tying together the perspectives of biological science and mystical Christianity. The major causes of physical, psychological and emotional disease will be addressed and the process of actively bringing healing to body, mind, heart and soul will be described. An emphasis will be placed on how we can move beyond the things that cause dis-ease and into a place of receiving and giving in vitality and joy.

Rev. David Michael Corvini is a resident internist and emergency medicine physician for Yale University's departments of Internal Medicine and Emergency Medicine. He serves as the priest and director of the Order of Christ/Sophia's New Haven Center of Light, a mystical Christian school for spiritual development with centers in 9 states.
