Publishing Tips from a B&N Bookstore Manager

A lecture by Don Levy

When: Wednesday, May 5, 2004 at 6:30PM

Where: New Haven Free Public Library 133 Elm Street, New Haven
– Children’s Program Room

“If you want people to read your book, don’t publish it yourself.” That’s the advice of Don Levy, Manager of the Yale Medical Barnes & Noble Bookstore.

Levy has been selling books for the Barnes & Noble College Bookstore Company for years. As part of his job he counsels Yale graduate students on the best ways to publish and promote their books. Don will be leading a free publishing seminar at the Children’s Activity Room at the New Haven Free Public Library at 6:30pm on Wednesday, May 5th

The event is open to the public. The publishing seminar is one of the monthly lectures being presented by the Connecticut Holistic Health Association.
